31st Fest Will Feature Quite an Awesome Lineup

As you can see by the photos, the 31st Annual San Diego Thanksgiving Dixieland Jazz Festival features a truly awesome assemblage of talent!

The Festival, which takes place Nov. 24-28, 2010 at the Town & Country Resort and Convention Center (500 Hotel Circle North in San Diego's Hotel Circle) includes a mix of new and time-tested favorites...

Dave Bennett was a smash hit at the 2009 Festival, whether playing glorious Goodman-style clarinet with his Quartet or pounding the piano à la Jerry Lee Lewis with the Memphis Boys. We are very pleased to welcome back Dave and his Quartet to the 31st Annual Fest.

One of the best-loved traditional jazz bands, the High Sierra Jazz Band, will once again play to full houses and standing ovations. Likewise, the fabulous sounds of Cornet Chop Suey are sure to fill our venues again and again.

New in 2010, Tom Rigney and Flambeau, bring the sounds of Mardi Gras to America's Finest City. Tom Rigney's jaw-dropping fiddle features and the band's irresistible beat on Cajun and Zydeco tunes have made them a "must" on the festival circuit.

In 2009, we missed having Billy Mata and the Texas Tradition. We promise they will make their Thanksgiving Festival debut in 2010!

Titanic Jazz Band Mar. 21

San Francisco Jazz — the music of Lu Watters, Turk Murphy and Clancy Hayes — is the specialty of the Titanic JB. Cornetist/leader Dan Comins, reedman Mike Baird and pianist Robbie Rhodes worked with the famed South Frisco Jazz Band, which was led by Titanic's banjoist Vince Saunders. Trombonist Keith Elliott has played with the Jazzin' Babies and Rosy McHargue and brass bassist Ray Cadd worked with the Frisco Syncopators and Yerba Buena Stompers. Ralf Reynolds, leader of the Reynolds Brothers Rhythm Rascals is playing washboard.

Carl Sonny Leyland Trio with Chloe Feoranzo Apr. 18

Carl Sonny Leyland, internationally-renowned boogie woogie pianist and blues vocalist, has performed around the globe and on film soundtracks (including "A Perfect World" and "The Pelican Brief"). On Apr. 18, his trio will include Wally Hersom (Big Sandy, Deke Dickerson, Campus Five) on bass and AFCDJS President Hal Smith on drums, with the phenomenal Chloe Feoranzo as a guest on reeds. You'll hear boogie woogie by Ammons, Yancey, Davenport, Lofton plus swing and vintage pop songs.

Dixie Express May 16

This popular local band is a product of AFCDJS's monthly Dixieland workshop and the annual Adult Jazz Camp. Co-led by reedman John Contreras and drummer Dave Austin, the band includes Ray Couteau, cornet; (AFCDJS Executive Director) Alan Adams, trombone; Ken Dillard, piano; Jim Goodwin, guitar and banjo; and Tim Smith, bass. The band performs every Wednesday at Fuddrucker's at Grossmont Center in La Mesa and just completed a 12-week engagement at the Lawrence Welk Resort in Escondido.

30th Fest Smaller, Yet High Standards Remain

by Paul Daspit

AFCDJS Sponsorship Coordinator

Sometimes you just need a good jazz music event to recharge your batteries.

The 2000 or so people attending the 30th Annual Thanksgiving Dixieland Jazz Festival have done that in spades. Based on comments from those attending, the somewhat smaller Festival did not take anything away from the top quality music or excellence of bands and musicians that has become the standard of the San Diego Dixieland Jazz Festival. One individual from Texas expressed it this way, "You may have had a fewer number of venues this year, but the decisions on which one to attend at any given time were still just as hard to make."

Top quality bands and musicians is the trademark of this yearly Festival and the 30th Annual event was true to form with a fantastic lineup — from Dave Bennett and his Quartet, to Tim Laughlin, Connie Jones and New Orleans All Stars, Sue Palmer and Motel Swing, Anita Thomas, Yerba Buena Stompers, Grand Dominion, Night Blooming Jazzmen, Chloe Feoranzo, Carl Sonny Leyland, Katie Cavera, Cash Kings, Hayriders, Titanic JB, High Society JB, Mission Bay HS Dixie, Heliotrope Ragtime Orchestra, Uptown Lowdown JB, Dixie Express and Dick Williams' Jazzsea Jams.

A number of Special Events punctuated the Festival with excitement — an explosive tribute to Jerry Lee Lewis and superb Benny Goodman sets by Dave Bennett, a Lester Young Centennial tribute led by Anita Thomas and Hal Smith provided insight into this pacesetter's music, three clarinets of Anita, Chloe and Dave Bennett sparkled for the audience, John Gill with a wonderful Bing Crosby tribute, and 2 to Groove swing dance group showed its shag, shim-sham and lindy hop prowess.

If you were there, you experienced all the above. If you were not able to attend the 30th Annual Festival, you will be happy to learn that a number of the highlighting bands and musicians will be returning next year as described in another article in this edition of the Jazz Rambler. We are hoping that 2010 is a better financial year for all and that attendance will be on the up-swing. Do a friend or family member who may not have ever attended our Jazz Festival a favor by bringing them along next year!

Many thanks are due to many people for the success of this year's Festival —

www.dixielandjazzfestival.org

The personnel of many of the local Bands that have appeared in our Festivals have been participants in the AFCDJS free Jazz Workshops.

leading off the list are our wonderful band and musician sponsors and the in-kind Festival sponsors — two groups without which this Festival would not be possible. The over 100 individuals who donated to our annual appeal, our special 30-year Banner donors, and Youth & Education Program donors all contributed to making the Festival a success and helped enable the AFCDJS to continue its work to preserve and promote traditional Jazz. Kudos to the vendors and exhibitors who help defray some of the expense of putting on this Festival for which we are very grateful. Finally, the Festival volunteers who lubricate the machinery of the Festival as cab managers, and at badge sales, information and membership desk, venue help, musician lounge, instrument storage and volunteer room coordinators — all greatly appreciated and most essential to our success.

Mark your calendar for 2010, November 24-28, Wednesday thru Sunday of Thanksgiving week at the Town & Country Resort, for another trad jazz experience. See you then!

Awesome Lineup . . .

Billy sings in the best tradition of Tommy Duncan and the San Antonio-based band plays the most danceable and enjoyable Western Swing imaginable.

Yet another new band at Fest 31 is the Festival Footwarmers. Led by clarinet and sax virtuoso Anita Thomas, the Footwarmers also feature red hot Chicago reedman Kim Cusack, New Orleans keyboard wizard John Royen on piano and world-class bassist Mike Earls. The band was a sensation at the 2009 Evergreen Jazz Festival in Colorado. For our Festival, they will add one of our all-time favorite performers, Katie Cavera, on guitar.

Speaking of reeds, the Festival lineup includes two more fantastic clarinetists — San Diego's own Bobby Gordon and another New Orleanian, Tim Laughlin, with Connie Jones and the New Orleans All-Stars.

The list so far should mean that our patrons are already preparing to order badges, but wait — there's more!

Fans of eight-beat and walking bass on the piano rejoice — we have scheduled the Boogie Woogie King (Carl Sonny Leyland) and the Queen (Sue Palmer) for Festival #31!

The High Society Jazz Band and the Night Blooming Jazzmen have been part of the Thanksgiving Festival since the beginning. As always, we are happy to welcome them back.

Cakewalkers, Bunny Huggers and Eagle Rockers take note — the Heliotrope Ragtime Orchestra will once again play music of the Ragtime Era, suitable for high-stepping ragtime dancing and vintage costuming!

Special Thanks to Our Volunteers

The 30th San Diego Thanksgiving Dixieland Jazz Festival went off smoothly again this past year due in large part to our excellent volunteers serving in the music venues, musicians' hospitality room, badge sales booth, information center, volunteers' room, and membership table. We extend a special thanks to those volunteers who were cabaret managers or hostesses, as well as those who stepped up to help whenever there was an unexpected need.

We sincerely appreciate Ruthe Monteith's assistance with the band hostesses and Everett Crouse's extra work with the cabaret managers. Of course, our Festival would not be the same without Dewey Williams who makes coffee in the morning, trouble shoots all day, and then closes up in the venues every evening.

We sincerely hope our dedicated volunteers will return this year and help to make the 2010 Festival another successful event.

Papa Ray . . .

The band played every Friday and Saturday at the Pizza Palace in Huntington Beach. Fortunately, the band was recorded live on a number of occasions. The late Ron Going's tapes from Mar. 16, 1968 were released on Merry Makers CD-4. A compilation of live recordings from the Pizza Palace made by pianist Dick Shooshan are scheduled for release at a future date. The band also recorded an LP ("Here Comes the Hot Tamale Man") for the Vault label in 1969. Unfortunately, as of this writing, that record has not been reissued on CD.

While in Southern California, Ray also worked with the Salutation Tuxedo Band, which included Frank Demond, Jim Bogen, Shooshan, Mike Fay and Walter Sereth (on drums). After leaving the South Frisco Jazz Band, Ray played with the Crescent Bay Jazz Band and frequently appeared at Sunday-afternoon jam sessions hosted by various jazz clubs.

During the 1970s and 1980s, Ray's unique sound was heard infrequently. He surfaced again in the early '90s, playing sessions with Gremoli and played a single, though very memorable, date with the New Orleans Wanderers at the Fullerton Hofbrau in 1995. On that occasion, Ray's majestic New Orleans-style cornet thrilled the musicians as well as the fans.

He is not playing at the present time, but his composition "Salty Bubble" is heard on the soundtrack of Woody Allen's recent film "Whatever Works" (played by Tom Sharpsteen's Orlandos, with Clint Baker on drums). The supremely talented cornetist Marc Caparone and longtime musical associate Mike Fay stay in contact with "Papa Ray" and report that he may be composing more music for future Allen films! And though Marc has a distinctive individual style on cornet, he can also play Ray's style to perfection.

Papa Ray Ronnei is one of the most creative and exciting of all traditional jazz stylists. Buy one of his recordings and prepare to be inspired by Ray's interpretations of Keppard, Carey and Brunies, filtered through his unique musical sensibilities!

The author heard Papa Ray Ronnei many times with the South Frisco Jazz Band in the late 1960s. He has never recovered from the experience.

Jazz writer Michael Steinman also posted several of Rae Ann's videos, plus exceptionally well-written comments, on his "Jazz Lives" blog (<http://jazzlives.wordpress.com>). The "Archives" button on the right side of the page contains a drop-down menu. Click on "December, 2009." When the page loads, scroll to the bottom and click on "older entries." The Festival videos on that page include John Gill's tribute to Bing Crosby ("Deep Feeling"); the Lester Young Centennial played by Hal's Angels ("Something For Lester"); Tim Laughlin's New Orleans All-Stars ("That's Like It Ought To Be") and the Yerba Buena Stompers ("Play It Again, Boys").

Papa Ray Ronnei – Icon of Traditional Jazz

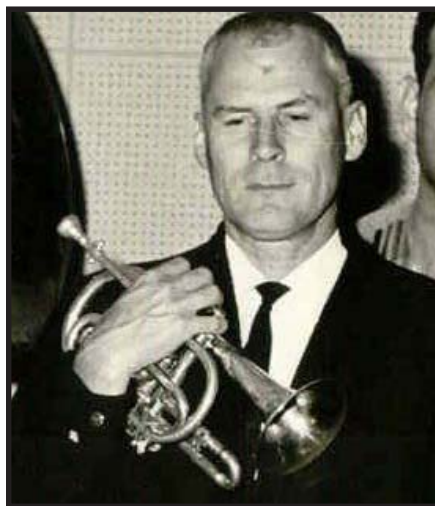

(This is the 75th in a series of biographies of great traditional jazz musicians.)

By Hal Smith
AFCDJS President

Ray Ronnei was born in Minneapolis on Nov. 7, 1916 — as cornetist Freddie Keppard was enroute to Salt Lake City to resume touring with the Original Creole Band. He was five years old when Papa Mutt Carey played cornet with Spikes' Seven Pods of Pepper on the first issued recording by an African-American Jazz Band. He was seven when cornetist Abbie Brunies made his first records with the Halfway House Jazz Band in New Orleans. And 93 years after his birth, Ray Ronnei's interpretation of Keppard's, Carey's and Brunies' styles, combined with his own unique musical ideas, has made him a living legend.

A few years after graduating from high school, Ray Ronnei took cornet lessons from Louis Maggio. During World War II he served in the Coast Guard and after the war he studied with Papa Mutt Carey, then with Kid Ory's Creole Jazz Band. Ray played around Southern California in the late '40s and jazz writer Floyd Levin recorded him with Ory's pianist Buster Wilson in 1949. Several of those tracks were issued in 1996 on American Music CD-89. The Mutt Carey influence is unmistakable on the selections where Ray is heard.

His next recording was a live performance in Los Angeles with the Pepper Jazz Band, taped by Paul Affeldt in 1957 and issued on Epitaph Records No. 1 Live recordings with the Jazz Missionaries and (the original) Red Pepper Jazz Band, from the early '60s, were released on Epitaph 2 and 3, respectively. A 1962 live recording by Jerry Kaehle's South Bay Jazz Band was issued on LP and cassette, and recently released on CD by Merry Makers. Although the Mutt Carey influence is still apparent on these recordings, there are also elements of Keppard and Brunies in Ray's playing.

In 1963, Ray joined the El Dorado Jazz Band in Los Angeles. This group was a spinoff of a band led by trombonist James Leigh in the Bay Area from the mid-'50s until the early '60s. The Los Angeles El Dorado band was led by banjoist Dan Ruedger (who was the banjoist in the Northern California group). In addition to Ray and Dan, the personnel included Al Crowne, trombone; Walter Sereth, clarinet (later, Mike Baird); Mike Fay, bass; Pete Kier, helicon; and Bob Raggio, washboard. The band played at many venues in Southern California including Ted's Grill, Leaping Liz's, the Can-Can, the Golden West Hofbrau, Mr. Fat Fingers and at meetings of the New Orleans Jazz Club of California. Paul Affeldt recorded the band on a number of occasions and issued the results on Epitaph-3 and Item-1. He also organized an actual recording date for the band (though in a makeshift studio) in Santa Monica in 1964. This session, issued on Epitaph-4, features blazing hot cornet by Ray on "My Bucket's Got a Hole in It" and his characteristic vocals on "Early Hours," "Snag It" and "Someday, Sweetheart."

The band was popular with traditional jazz fans in the mid-1960s but ultimately it disbanded, the final engagement played on July 23, 1966 at Guys & Dolls in Sepulveda, CA. The band at that time was led by washboardist Bob Raggio and included Ray; Frank Demond, trombone; Tom Sharpsteen, clarinet; Vic Loring, banjo; and Mike Fay, bass. Once again, Paul Affeldt recorded the performance and a selection of the material was issued on Epitaph-5.

Following the breakup of the El Dorado band, Ray wound up in the Bay Area, where he worked frequently with Ted Shafer's Jelly Roll Jazz Band. The JRJB played a steady engagement at the Straw Hat Pizza Parlor in Oakland and many of those nights were recorded by the late Ed Sprinkle. Several tracks from 1967 show Ray at his best, playing alongside trombonist Bob Mielke, clarinetist Bob Helm, bassist Jim Cumming and banjoist-leader Shafer. In particular, "Maple Leaf Rag," "Tiger Rag," "Mamie Desdome's Blues" and "Big Chief Battle Axe" are classics of traditional jazz.

In 1968 Ray returned to Southern California, where he joined Vince Saunders' South Frisco Jazz Band.
